Editor's note: The 50th anniversary of Japan's surprise attack on Pearl Harbor will be observed on Saturday. In the December 7, 1978, edition of The Sea Coast Echo, I had the honor of doing the first interview granted by William (Bill) Sanders of Bay St. Louis, who was on the deck of the U.S.S. Curtis at Pearl Harbor. On Tuesday I talked to Sanders along with Kenneth (Ken) McKenna of Waveland, who was blown from the deck of the Arizona during the attack. This was also McKenna's first interview granted. I am re-running Sanders' story, which also includes his wife's experiences, as she was at Waikiki Beach during the attack. See pages 11 and 12A.

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

On December 7, 1941, when the Japanese attacked, the battleship Arizona was 1 1/2 miles from the U.S.S. Curtis.

The Arizona was docked along what was known as 'Battleship Row' in Pearl Harbor and the Curtis was moored 100 yards from the runway on Ford Island.

Kenneth McKenna was Chief Quarter Master on the Arizona, on Admiral I.C. Kidd's staff.

William (Bill) Sanders was assigned to the U.S.S. Curtis, a seaplane tender, as an aviation machinist.

When McKenna, presently 82, retired in New Orleans and moved to Waveland, he started attending the Main Street United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis, where he and Sanders, now 81, became friends.

McKenna, in a very slow speaking voice said, "I was waiting on the quarter deck to go ashore for a barbecue and not paying much attention, as the harbor was full of Liberty Boats taking troops from the battleships ashore."

"As the first wave of planes came into view, they were flying low, and someone spotted the insignia of the Rising Sun and yelled, 'They are Japanese planes!'"

"Things happened so fast within the next three or four was preflighting the ship's plane, a OS2U1, a single engine plane, when he heard an explosion on Ford Island and the loud speakers blared, 'All hands general quarters!'"

On the Arizona, McKenna said, "It was a mad scramble. The officer in charge, Lt. Cmdr. Samuel Glen Fuqua, who won the first medal of honor during World War II, began to sound general quarters and the message was never completed. We got strafed and took two fish (torpedos) in the side. Next we minutes, it was a mad house," McKenna recalled.

A little after 6:30 a.m. reveille, Sanders aboard the Curtis, took the bomb that went down the stack.

Health insurance costs to double in Waveland

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Blue Cross will increase Waveland employees' insurance costs by 100 percent, Mayor Stella Fritot informed the board Tuesday.

Fritot said the increase is to take effect next month, bringing the price of single health insurance to $218.26 per month from the present cost of $109.13.

The city pays 79 percent and the employee pays 21 percent of the monthly cost. At present, the city pays $7,802.86 a month to Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Mississippi for 86 city employees.

Fritot explained within the past year, two employees have had major illnesses, causing the insurance company to increase the overall costs of coverage for the city.

Turning to city attorney Lucien Gex, she asked that he look into removing the workers of the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District from the city's health insurance plan.

She said though the management district paid for their own employees, any claims by wastewater employees would affect the City of Waveland's rating and eventual costs.

Fritot added her office was actively seeking information from alternative companies, along with looking into the possibilities of a self-insurance pool.

Board grants easement to Mississippi Power Co.

BY TRACI BONNEY

The county board of supervisors voted Monday to Mississippi Power Company an easement in Port Bienville Industrial Park for a new power line.

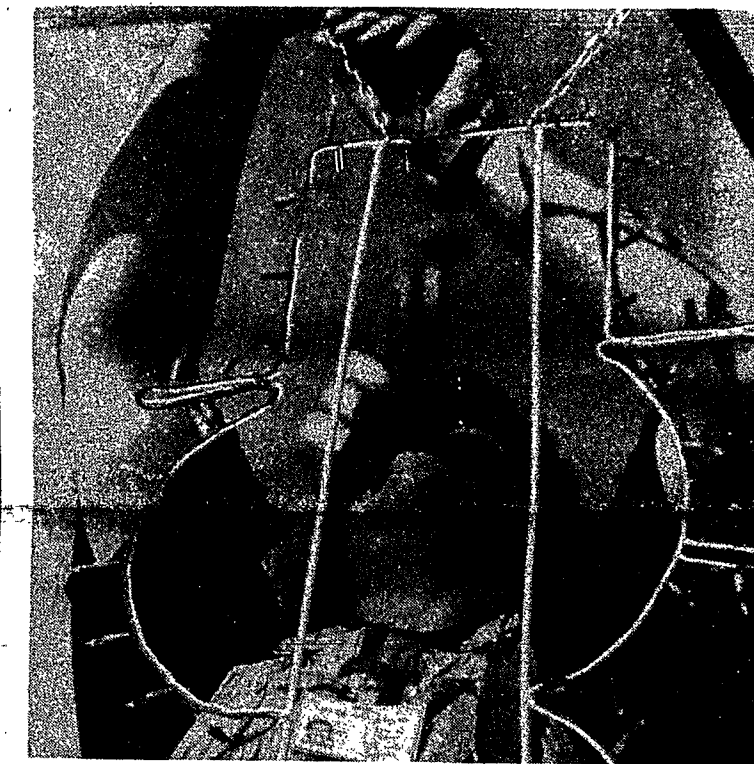

The 115-kilovolt transmission line, planned to provide better service to Bay St. Louis and Waveland as well as the industrial park, will incorporate a loop feed through which power can be diverted should an emergency arise, according to Buddy Eller, the power company's manager of external communications.

Eller said Bay St. Louis, Waveland and the park are fed power through a single-source line at present. In the case of a break, power must be stopped, leaving people without electricity.

The loop feed will provide an alternate route through which service can be continued while repairs are being made, he explained.

The line will start at the Turner Street power station in Bay St. Louis, then run north to Hwy. 90 and west for six miles along the highway before entering the industrial park where it will service a Coast Electric substation.

Rick Woodall, assistant superintendent of the Waveland street department, puts up Christmas decorations on Coleman Avenue Wednesday morning in preparation for Sunday's "Festival of Lights" celebration. Businesses and residents along the avenue will flip on their lights in unison at 5 p.m. Refreshments will be offered to the public, St. Rose Choir will sing at 5:30 p.m., and the evening will conclude at 8 p.m. with a bonfire on the beach. Costly survey dispute still unresolved in Bay

A lack of witnesses is forcing Bay St. Louis to spend more than city officials want to on a survey dispute.

City attorney John Scafile updated the council Tuesday on surveyor James Chiniche's actions toward a possible solution to the current Longfellow Drive survey dispute.

Scafile had recommended to the council in November that the city contract with Chiniche to use field notes on the original subdivision survey in an attempt to find any remainders of the witness trees that would establish one of two contended spots as the subdivision corner.

The council agreed to Scafile's recommendation, but because of varying circumstances (locations of the tree roots under culverts, streets, etc.) Chiniche was not able to verify any former witness tree locations.

Scafile said this leaves the council with a sec-

Carmichael featured at Chamber banquet

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Gilbert (Gil) Carmichael, Federal Railroad administrator, will be the featured speaker Friday at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's annual banquet and installation of officers.

The banquet will be at Diamondhead Country Club beginning at 7.

Officers to be installed include Basil Kennedy, president; Jon Ritten, treasurer; Kelly Cannon, Pat Cucullu, John Mason, Tim Ryan, Henry Martinez, Bill Lady, Jeanne Deen, Bill Johnson, A.C. Adam, Toni Larroux, Mike Meyers, Paul Montjoy, David Treutel Jr. and Martha Van Peski, directors.

A vice-president is to be elected from the directors.

The president will submit the names of four appointed directors to be approved by the board to serve a one-year term.

Several awards will be presented at the banquet including, Outstanding Citizen, Community Pride, Miss Chamber and special presentations.

U.S. Congressman Gene Taylor of Bay St. Louis will introduce Carmichael, who was appointed by President George Bush in September.

Smile kids! You're on Hancock school busses' hidden cameras

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Hancock County school board members approved the purchase of ten monitoring boxes Tuesday, for the intended purpose of curbing discipline problems aboard specific school busses.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph stated, "Hopefully this will help when we have conflicting stories over what occurred aboard a school bus."

"Students tend to deny their actions, and parents tend to believe their children."

"The video/audio tape will give us evidence as what actually happened."

School board members also approved the taking of quotes on the purchase of two 8 mm cameras. They were told the two cameras would be randomly moved between the 10 monitoring boxes.

Randolph said the monitoring boxes were made so that detection of the contents is impossible. "This way they never know when they are being videotaped, and at the same time it will cost us less, by not having to purchase a camera for each box."

Assistant superintendent Eddie Danzey stated, at present, the county has 40 busses on routes.

The board was told the boxes cost approximately $225 each.

Board member Carol Bustetter asked if other school districts were using the monitoring devices and whether they found them to be helpful with bus discipline problems.

Randolph said, "They are using them in Clinton, Poplarville, McComb, Moss Point and in one other district."

"I have been told that it has been helpful."

Bustetter said she felt it was worth a try, "considering all the problems we have had on certain routes."

In other business the board approved:

—the employment of Jay Poolson as electricity instructor for the Hancock County Vo-Tech Center for the remainder of the 1991-92 school year;

—the payment of $7,848 to Hudson Contracting for labor-

As Federal Railroad administrator, Carmichael leads an agency of 697 persons. FRA responsibilities center on making America's railroads safer, encouraging research and development in the areas of safety and new technology, and supporting policies that will enhance the competitiveness of America's freight and passenger railroads.

Montjoy, who arranged Carmichael's visit, said, "We could not have a more perfect time to have Gil as our guest speaker, especially with the Amtrak proposal for the Coastal counties."

Carmichael is a native of Meridian, Miss. He is a graduate of Texas A&M University with a BS in business, and was a fellow of the Institute of Politics, Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

He has been instrumental in securing administration support for funding advanced technology rail systems, such as magnetic levitation and high-speed rail.

Prior to his federal appointment, Carmichael was an automobile distributor and real estate developer. He is married to the former Carolyn Dean White, and they have one son, Scott.

St. Stanislaus ACEs competition

BY TRACI BONNEY

At last there is a local academic event for fifth, sixth and seventh grade students.

St. Stanislaus High School is inaugurating its first Academic Competition for Excellence (ACE). Middle school students from South Mississippi schools will travel to SSC December 7 to compete in science, math, social studies and English.

ACE coordinator Jeannie Ryan said the competition is a spin-off of the annual literary rally held by a Louisiana school administered by the Brothers of the Sacred Heart.

She said she, English teacher Pat Modenbach and others have spent several months organizing the event. So far, more than 400 students from area public, private and parochial schools are slated to attend.

Modenbach explained, "The tests will be multiple choice and will consist of 40 questions each. The questions will be advanced for the grade levels, but not so much so that the students can't answer them."

"This competition is meant to be a compliment for the students, a pat on the back from their teachers, who nominated them."

The day-long event will include the testing period, lunch in the St. Stanislaus cafeteria, entertainment (music and a magic show), and an awards ceremony. Trophies will be awarded to the three students in each grade with the highest scores; ribbons will be awarded for honorable mentions; and certificates will be given to all participants.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Fog (and more fog) seems to be the weather of the day, or at least it was over the long Thanksgiving weekend.

It was good to see a ray of sunshine Monday afternoon.

I was beginning to feel like I was about to become a mold because of the dampness.

It is horrible to drive in foggy weather, and I have had several people tell me they cut trips short and even cancelled some because of the fog.

While thinking about it, we could have rain, snow, sleet and ice like other areas of the country and be worse off.

Friday night will mark the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's annual Christmas banquet and installation of officers.

I talked earlier this week with Cindy Vernon, executive director, and she reported all tickets have been sold, but she was keeping a waiting list in case there are some dropouts.

Diamondhead will start the area's Christmas festivities with the third annual Diamondhead Merchants Showing tonight at 6 at the Days Inn.

This is a time when the community's merchants will be displaying their merchandise just in time for Christmas.

On Saturday, parents may want to remember to mark their calendars for 3 p.m. for the annual Hancock Chamber of Commerce Red Ribbon Christmas parade in Bay St. Louis.

I am sure the youngsters would like to visit Santa and give him their wish list.

A new feature this year, I am told, is a dancing and singing Santa coming in from the North Pole. He will dance and sing along with Rudolph before he receives the youngsters' wish lists.

Anyone interested in participating in the parade may contact Cindy or Georgia at the chamber, 467-9048.

The parade route will begin at Main and St. Francis streets, Main to Beach, Beach to Carroll and Carroll to Bay Middle School.

The parade will disband at the school, and Santa will continue on to the courthouse to give his concert and visit with the kiddies.

Christmas events continue Saturday night with the lighting of the Christmas Card Lane in Waveland.

On Sunday night, the first Festival of Lights celebration in Waveland will begin at 5 p.m.

This Coleman Avenue event will be an "open house" type of celebration with entertainment, refreshments, candies, etc., and (oh yes!) Santa will be there, too.

I understand a lot of preparation has gone into the Coleman Avenue celebration, and a lot of surprises will be awaiting the visitors.

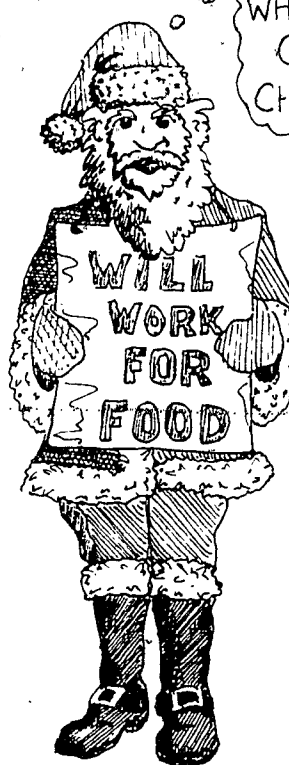

The above are only the highlights of events as there are others happening and more to come within the next few weeks.

One of the signal lights in the eastbound lane of U.S. 90 at Main Street has been out for over a week, as of Monday.

I am just wondering how long the very important signal light has to be out before the bulb is replaced.

Health care and the home front

Mississippi ranks high nationally as suffering from health care problems—among them infant mortality. Steps are being taken to combat these health care problems in our state.

Perhaps the most alarming of Mississippi's health care problems is infant mortality. The Mississippi State Department of Health released five-year (1986-1990) average statistics which show Mississippi as having an infant mortality rate of 12.4 for every 1,000 live births.

According to the National Center for Health Statistics, the most recent national average (1989) for infant mortality was 9.5, which clearly shows Mississippi's higher-than-the-national-average rate for infant mortality and our dire need for assistance.

The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) recently established a program called Healthy Start, designed initially to study the causes of infant mortality. HHS began by naming 10 areas to be studied under the program of which none included locations in Mississippi.

In a letter to HHS Secretary Louis Sullivan and President George Bush, I discussed the problems in Mississippi and my concern over having not been chosen as a study site for infant mortality when areas in the Mississippi Delta have mortality rates as high as nearly 30.

Secretary Sullivan, being from Atlanta and the South, knows the type of health care problems facing many Southerners. He understands how difficult it is for rural areas to attract quality health care professionals and to offer modern health care facilities, and he helped our concerns of exclusion to be known.

Fortunately, the list was enlarged to 15 areas, among them Mississippi, and that's a start. By investigating our health care problems, we can solve them.

In April of this year, I gathered doctors from around the state to be members of the newly created Advisory Committee for Health Care. My hopes were for a committee which would meet on a regular basis to investigate Mississippi's health care concerns.

The meeting proved to be a catalyst for dialogue and ideas focusing on ways to improve health care both in rural Mississippi and urban areas around the state.

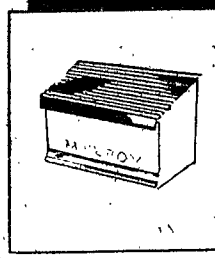

True, Mississippi has some big health care problems, but at least we are taking positive steps to bring the quality of health care up to the national level. Through determination and team work, we can improve health on the home front.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Pearl Harbor's 50th anniversary Dec. 7

Dear Editor,

On this coming 7th of December, America observes the 50th anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor. President Franklin D. Roosevelt called it a day that would "live in infamy," and it marked the entrance of the United States into a global struggle that is only just now coming to an end.

It was a struggle for the survival of freedom and democracy, and it became our struggle for the simple reason that we were—and are—the leader of the free world. We have abiding and important cultural, trade, and political ties that reach around the globe, and our interests depend on promoting and defending a world that is peaceful, stable and free.

That's worth remembering this December 7th. We can't afford to turn our back again on a world which is uncertain, unstable, and potentially very dangerous. The volatile conflicts between ancient ethnic and religious groups, the proliferation of sophisticated military technology and the ambitions of nationalist leaders like Saddam Hussein suggest that the world has not suddenly become a safe and secure place.

The fact is that the United States is still the only power that can underwrite a peaceful, stable and free international community. It does so by demonstrating its will and ability to defend its principles and interests wherever on the globe they may be challenged.

That's what our thousands of skilled, dedicated men and women in uniform do every day. Our maritime forces are peacefully engaged throughout the world; they are training, strengthening cultural ties, building security partnerships, showing the flag and demonstrating their readiness to respond to any contingency—from a natural disaster, to terrorist activity, to armed aggression by one nation on another.

On any given day, over 200 U.S. Navy ships—some 40 percent of our fleet—and thousands of Marines are underway at sea. They are, as they dramatically proved during Desert Storm, ready, reliable, responsible and required.

They represent an investment that we have to protect, because if we don't, it will take us decades to build back our ships, our technical advantage, our leadership, and our experience—decades that we simply won't have.

By being out there and being ready, our service people are the world's—and America's—best insurance that the promises of democracy and free trade will be fulfilled in the post Cold War era, and that the international community will not find itself again overcome by a global war. That, I think, is worth thinking about on the 50th anniversary of Pearl Harbor.

H. Lawrence Garrett III
Secretary of the Navy
Washington, D.C.

Pearl Harbor should not be forgotten

Dear Editor,

On Thursday, Dec. 5, there will be a two-hour program on NBC about the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7.

I hope all who are able will watch this program.

It should be a reminder of what happened 50 years ago, can happen again, if America does not keep alert and watch what is going on in the world.

The reckless dismantling of our defense forces is in my humble opinion a big mistake.

Now Japan plans to enlarge their army and navy, saying they need to do this for protection against Russia, China and Korea.

Perhaps this is true. But we should never let ourselves be caught sleeping as we were on Dec. 7, 1941.

"Remember Pearl Harbor." Sincerely,
Nina S. Garcia

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

$1.3 billion for state roadwork a boost to economy

Recently Congress enacted landmark highway and mass transit legislation which will fund road and bridge work in Mississippi over the next six years.

The $151 billion transportation bill approved by Congress includes $1.3 billion that will go toward everything from repaving county roads to building a new Highway 90 bridge over the Pascagoula River.

Since our nation's modern interstate system was developed 35 years ago, South Mississippians have been building one of the finest in the world; able to transport goods coast to coast in a matter of days.

Now we have been given the opportunity to revitalize South Mississippi's transportation corridors while at the same time creating hundreds, if not thousands of jobs each year.

Administration officials project the bill will create up to 4 million jobs nationwide. This is welcome news considering that this measure will give America a much needed shot in the arm by stimulating our nation's sluggish economy.

South Mississippi's portion of the $1.3 billion includes $4.3 million for replacing the four-lane East Pascagoula bridge on U.S. 90 in Jackson County with a high-level, six-lane bridge.

I introduced this legislation earlier this year because the present bridge span is unable to handle the increased traffic loads created during rush hour and hurricane threats. The bridge will benefit tens of thousands of South Mississippians who travel on Hwy. 90 in Pascagoula every day.

The bridge would also provide uninterrupted access to both Ingalls Shipbuilding, which employs more than 16,000 workers, and the newly constructed U.S. Naval Station Pascagoula.

The Transportation bill also includes funding over the next six years to maintain and upgrade rural roads. Funds will be apportioned to states based on the state's size and rural population.

I am hopeful we can acquire a large portion of these funds so we can construct and upgrade roads in the rural areas of South Mississippi. It is a shame that more than 80,000 miles of Mississippi's dirt roads remain unpaved.

I am pleased that Congress has finally acknowledged the need to do something soon to overhaul our nation's deteriorating transportation system. This measure will increase federal spending on mass transit and highway construction by 40 percent in the next six years.

Both the Senate and the House approved the bill, sending it to President Bush, who has said he will sign it.

STREET TALK

Do you feel the Saints will reach the playoffs?

"No. I just don't think so. It looks like they are falling apart at the end of the season and in the last two and three quarters of the game."

Norvin Kelly

"No I can't see them getting it together for those last few games. They need a better quarterback."

Dalene Caspolich

"I hope they do, but honestly, I don't think they will. They have lost too many good players through injuries, and the hope is gone, too."

Penny Black
Waveland

"I think if they get a little help from the receivers and the defense plays a little harder, they will make it. They have been playing very good ball, but they have had some bad breaks at the end of the games. If they can get by Dallas they will have a chance of winning the division."

Dominic San Fillippo

"I think they are. They will pull out of this. They have played well from the beginning and are just nervous."

ond option: contract Chiniche to re-run four older surveys that all use the disputed corner as part of their parameters. Scafide told the council this option is expected to cost the city about $1,500.

Mayor Edward Favre and the council members concurred that since the city has gone so far to try and resolve the dispute, the city should go ahead and try one more time to establish the corner. The council voted 4-1 to authorize Chiniche to do the work. Jim Thriffley opposed the motion, but stated no reason for doing so.

The dispute as to the corner's location started when property owners on one side of Longfellow (south of Hwy. 90) claimed that the city street is incorrectly located, infringing on their property. Further, these property owners claim that the landowners on the other side of the street are infringing on the city's right-of-way for the proper street location.

Entertaining the children

"While the parents exercise the children can be entertained," explained county road superintendent Sam Cuevas of the intent behind the installation of a new gym set at the Hancock County Walking Track on Highway 90. The gym set was purchased by the parks department and installed by building and ground crews. Parks commission member E.J. Marengo shovels dirt to conceal the newly poured cement while instructed by building crew workers, from left, Mike Ladner, superintendent Cuevas, James Traviere and Norvin Kelly. Ogle: Jam not as bad as it looked Sunday

BY TRACI BONNEY

Although traffic was backed up across the Mississippi/Louisiana state line, no serious injuries resulted from a number of minor accidents that occurred on Interstate 10 Sunday afternoon, according to the Louisiana State Police.

LSP Sgt. Louis Ogle said six multiple-vehicle accidents occurred, starting with a two-vehicle incident at 3:05 p.m. at the rest area just across the state line. Shortly afterward, a four-vehicle accident happened on the westbound side of I-10 near the Pearl River Bridge.

Almost simultaneously, another four-vehicle incident occurred at the rest area, followed by a two-vehicle accident (one was a bus), and two three-vehicle accidents.

The final count for vehicles involved was 18, with about 17 minor injuries resulting.

"It was just bad weather and a lot of traffic," Ogle said. "There were no really bad injuries, just a traffic jam."

Easter Seal Society offers Christmas cards

Christmas cards, reproduced from original artwork of five Mississippi artists, are available from the Mississippi Easter Seal Society. The five cards were chosen in a statewide competition of over 47 entries. The winners are Anne Dennis of Madison, Elizabeth Dunnaway of Ocean Springs, Rose Nelson and Betty Phelps of Jackson, and Donald Scaffidi of Tunica. Included are a manger scene, a snow scene, a soldier coming home for Christmas, children feeding ducks, and the Mississippi Capitol with poinsettias. The cards sell for $10 per box of 20 cards and may be purchased by calling 982-7051. A free color picture brochure of the cards is also available upon request.

Musically inclined:

The Walter Anderson Museum of Art will host the J.S. Bach "Coffee Cantata" Friday, Dec. 13. Bach has long been revered as one of the great geniuses of Western music. The sense of seriousness and gravity in his music is unmistakable, whether the piece being played is the B minor Mass or the Well-Tempered Clavier; the Brandenburg Concerto or A Mighty Fortress is Our God. However, Bach also had a light, humorous side. Schneckenstimme, plaudert nicht, or Be Still, Don't Complain, better known as the "Coffee Cantata," is the story of a young woman's fondness for coffee and her oblivious regard for others around her. Sung in English, the piece is comprised of 10 vocal pieces and various orchestral interludes. The orchestra will consist of strings, oboe and harpsichord joined by a soprano, tenor and baritone. Musicians will include members of the faculties of Loyola University in New Orleans. The Cantata will be presented amid the Community Center Murals created by Walter Anderson. After the concert, the audience will be invited to a reception featuring coffee, pastries and condiments. Each guest will receive a special Coffee Cantata mug as part of their admission fee. Admission is $15 for non-members and $18 for members. The presentation will start check to the Walter Anderson Museum of Art at P.O. Box 328, Ocean Springs, MS 39564, or call 872-3164 for more information.

Against the wall:
The ArtsAlliance of Jackson & Hinds County seeks entries for its 1992 Jubilee! JAM festival poster contest through January 3, 1991. Any artist 18 or older may enter. A cash prize of $1,000 will be awarded the winner. Jubilee! JAM, now in its sixth year, is an arts and music festival that attracts about 40,000 people to historic downtown Jackson each May. The winning poster design will be used on the festival's promotional literature, advertising, t-shirts and other souvenirs.

To receive contest guidelines and an entry form, artists should call 960-1557 or write the ArtsAlliance, P.O. Box 17, Jackson, MS 39205. The ArtsAlliance, a nonprofit local arts agency, acknowledges support from the City of Jackson, Hinds County, Mississippi Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Artist/producer Bob Songy is presenting local artisans along with some of his newest works in an "Art Show for the Holiday Season."

The show, open to the public, is being held on weekends in "The Courtyard" at Court Street Cuisine, on the corner of Court Street and Beach Boulevard.

The Mississippi Museum of Art/Gulf Coast is inviting local children to "deck the halls with art" in celebration of Christmas.

Saturday, Dec. 7, from 2 to 4 p.m., area school-age children and their parents are invited to create Christmas decorations at the Mississippi Museum of Art/Gulf Coast in the Biloxi Cultural Center and Library, downtown Biloxi.

Supervised art activities will allow the children to create tree ornaments from wire and paper, seasonal weavings and block-print banners. The public display of this handiwork will decorate the Museum for the holidays.

To cover the cost of materials, there will be a participant fee of $1.

The Museum is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday and 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. For more information about this and other educational programs, call 374-5547.

Hanukkah recipes

COOKING UP
A STORMBy Katy McGuire
Caire

As soon as the Thanksgiving feasting was over, my thoughts turned to Christmas celebrations and planning; and right on the very heels of Thanksgiving came Hanukkah, the Festival of Lights of Jewish culture.

As with celebrations in other cultures and beliefs, food plays an important part in the observation of Hanukkah, the eight-day-long celebration which began this year on this past Monday.

One of the traditional foods associated with Hanukkah is "latkes"—"Potato Latkes" or potato pancakes—simply delicious and good all 'round the year! I had misplaced my recipe for the authentic latkes, and felt something was missing from the last few batches I had made.

Thumbing through Josephine Bacon's delightful cookbook, "Jewish Cooking from Around the World" (Barron's) I found the missing taste, squeezes of lemon. How could I have forgotten, such a lemon "fanatic" as I? I mixed up a batch, and thoroughly enjoyed:

LATKES

2 lbs. large potatoes
Juice of 1/2 lemon

2 Tblsp. all-purpose flour
1 egg, lightly beaten
Salt and black pepper
8 Tblsp. oil

Line a large bowl with cheesecloth, letting it fall over the outside edges. Grate the potatoes on a coarse grater into the bowl (or use the grating attachment on a food processor and transfer the potatoes to the bowl). Quickly sprinkle potatoes with lemon juice to prevent darkening. Cover the bowl and leave at room temperature for 30 minutes.

Gather up the ends of the cheesecloth and squeeze out the moisture. Hold the cheesecloth briefly under running water and squeeze again thoroughly to remove excess moisture. Transfer the potatoes to a clean bowl. Stir in the flour, beaten egg and salt and pepper.

Heat the oil in a skillet over high heat. Drop 2 tablespoons of the mixture into the hot oil and cook until browned, turning halfway through the cooking, about 4 minutes on each side. Fry latkes in batches. Drain them on absorbent paper, then keep warm.

Serve hot with pastrami; or as a dessert, with sour cream and applesauce. (8 servings).

Here's another version, from that famed gourmet cook Craig Claiborne's "New York Times Cookbook." Here's:

POTATO PANCAKES

4 medium potatoes
1 medium onion
1 egg, lightly beaten

1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. nutmeg, optional
1/4 tsp. pepper, preferably white

1/2 tsp. baking soda
Butter or bacon fat

Wash and peel the potatoes, then drop into cold water, and let stand one or two hours or overnight, if desired. Grate potatoes with a fine grater and press to squeeze out excess liquid. Peel and grate the onion into the potatoes and add the egg, seasonings and soda, mixing well.

Heat the butter or fat in a large skillet and add one spoonful of the mixture for each pancake; they should not be too thick. Cook gently until golden brown on the bottom, turn and brown the other side, adding more butter to the skillet as needed until all the mixture is used. (4 servings).

office, The Reef Restaurant, the Chamber of Commerce office in Bay St. Louis, Kiln Supermarket, Caston's General Store in Bienville, Kent & Sue's Quick Stop on Lower Bay Road, Diamondhead Supermarket, Fahey Drug Store in Bay St. Louis, Cuevas's Grocery in Pearlport, Peterson's Grocery in Necaise Crossing and Vidalia Quick Stop at Vidalia and Menga.

Long Beach Christmas parade December 7

The ninth annual Long Beach Christmas parade will be Saturday, Dec. 7, at 2 p.m.

The parade will begin at Long Beach High School football parking lot and will end at the corner of Fifth Street and Jeff Davis Avenue.

The annual parade is sponsored by the Gulfport-Long Beach Optimist Club and the Long Beach Council of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Chamber of Commerce.

Individuals or groups interested in participating may contact Hubert McMillen at 863-3191 or the chamber at 863-6666.

Kmart donates paint to St. Vincent de Paul

Jay Fleuret, president of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, said Waveland Kmart is donating 20 cases of paint to the Society's St. Clare Conference for a special project.

The Society is taking applications from residents whose income is low and whose housing is in need of refurbishing. Those interested may apply Wednesday, 1:30-3:30 p.m., at the Society's thrift store on Coleman Avenue.

Kmart store manager Paul McElveen explained, "American business has a duty to help support the needs in communities in which we do business. Kmart takes this community responsibility very seriously. Every Kmart store across the country will be contributing to help their neighbors in need."

Go west to catch legal size speckled trout, redfish, bass

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fish. You know, you've got a gallon of rum. Or is it a quart of rum? Maybe just a small amount of rum. Forget it, they were probably talking about barley pop anyway. Well, the folks in early America had a great way to get their fishing fix. They used to use a barrel of rum to get their fishing fix. So this week is it.

all about fishing and how never before has there been such a high legal size limit on redfish. So if you're looking for a legal size fish, go west.

Go west, young man, ladies are invited, and fish the area around the Pearl River. There are so many fish being caught in this area that you can wear out your arms. The majority of the trout are in the 12- to 13-inch range with an occasional Mississippi legal trout showing up.

The numbers of red fish being caught are simply unbelievable. Virtually every fisherman returning to the landing is reporting catching 30 to 40 red fish and the limit of Louisiana legal specks.

The really nice thing about fishing in Louisiana waters is that Louisiana has a more reasonable size limit on red fish. Since the reds being caught are running between 16 and 20 inches, you get to keep a few of the reds that you catch.

Before I go any further, I must make sure that I don't mislead any fisherman with bad information. You cannot land a Louisiana legal red fish or a Louisiana legal trout at any launch in Mississippi. You can only land specks and reds in Mississippi that are of the minimum size that is specified by BMR, which is a much bigger size fish than is legal in Louisiana.

If you fish in Louisiana waters and keep fish that are of legal size in Louisiana waters and not of legal size in Mississippi, you must land your boat at a site in Louisiana.

There is a nice concrete ramp on Hwy. 90 at the west Pearl River bridge.

Remember, you must have a Louisiana fishing license to fish Louisiana waters.

Now, as to where to go for the fish in this area. You can work the bank and the cuts all the way to the Sound then turn west. This area is known as Pole Cat Bend. Trout and reds are being caught all around this area.

Quite a few fishermen are reporting that they are catching striped bass in this area also.

The most productive way to fish the river area has been to either use live cacaio minnows or to troll slowly.

Most of the anglers who have been trolling have been using four rods with four different baits until they find out which bait is the most successful. Then they switch to the most productive bait.

If you are to try trolling in the river itself, you should use a weighted line or a weighted leader. The river can get quite deep and the extra weight helps to get your bait down to where the fish are feeding.

The other areas that have been producing fish are Petit Pass, Mesquite Inlet, Bayou Biloxi area, Bob's Lake area, and the Bayou Marron area.

The most productive lures this week seems to be the beetle tails in crawfish color and the gold Johnson's Sprite. I also heard of a fisherman who was very successful using the plastic cacaio minnow with a bass size red and white popping bug as a trailer.

I leave you with two final admonitions. If you must launch your boat and fish in that other state, please buy your fuel and bait in Mississippi.

Secondly, I do not recommend that you travel the lower end of the Pearl River and especially the Pole Cat Bend area at night. There are some very irresponsible net fishermen working this area and they routinely leave their gill nets out all night without any regard to the safety of other people. So, it is best to travel this area in the daylight.

This week's wonderful wise words: Rum and gasoline don't mix.

Watch out for that pirate ship, turtle.

SSC juniors lose to Pass Pirates

The SSC juniors lost their basketball game to the Pass Pirates 45-18.

The eighth grade game was charged with a great amount as SSC player Vince McDaniel made a 5 foot jump shot with less than 10 seconds left in the game and forced overtime play.

High scorers during the eighth grade game were: St. Stanislaus — Vince Moran with 16 points; Brandon Benoit with 11 points; and Nathan Middleton with 8 points.

High scorers for the eighth grade game were: Pass Christian — Wesley Cook with 17 points; Eddie Reley with 9 points; and Darrell Dedaux with 8 points; St. Stanislaus — Terry Lawler with 10 points; and Jason Kirshenheuter with 8 points.

High scorers during the seventh grade game were: Pass Christian — Desi Clark with 11 points; André Armstrong with 4 points; Ronnie Sanchez with 4 points; and Dow Morgan with 4 points; St. Stanislaus — Drew Ladner with 8 points.

The SSC ninth grade team stands 2-3 overall and 1-1 in conference; the eighth grade team stands 1-4 overall and 1-3 in conference; and the seventh grade team stands 1-3 overall and 1-2 in conference.

SSC junior high teams travel to Pearl River Central next.

USM, Alabama to vie in Biloxi

The University of Southern Mississippi Golden Eagles, 1991 Metro Conference Champions, will face the University of Alabama-Crimson Tide in basketball action at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in December.

The game marks the first time Alabama has played in Biloxi, and hails the return of the Golden Eagles to the Coast after playing in the 1990 Metro Conference Tournament at the Coliseum.

In their last meeting in Birmingham, the Golden Eagles defeated the Crimson Tide by two points. Judging from the talent of both teams, this year's game will be equally as tough. Tip off is set for 3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 21. Tickets are available at both universities, the Mississippi Coast Coliseum, and at TicketMaster outlets in Mobile and on the Mississippi Coast for $11 plus computer charge. Rocks show improvement on court

Special to the Echo
Despite what many consider a disappointing 3-6 record so far, the young St. Stanislaus basketball team shows steady improvement, according to the SSC coaching staff.

The Rocks lost all of last season's starters and returned only two lettermen, but have shown they can still pound the boards, as evidenced by last week's upset victory over St. Martin in Biloxi. In past games, SSC has played tight, even in the losses.

Coach Jay Ladner said that in games against Long Beach, Hancock and Picayune, the Rocks have started strongly, but succumbed in the second half of play.

Ladner, in his first season at SSC, said he is pleased with the team's progress. "Many people did not expect us to win a single game. However, we've already won three."

"We've had a chance to win each ballgame we've played, and that's significant considering our schedule strength and only playing one home game during this stretch."

Steve Schuff, SSC's scrappy point guard, leads the team with 5.4 assists per game, followed by steady Michael Lee's 3.7 assists from his forward position.

Ryan Harrell, SSC's surprising post-man, is rebounding at 10.3 per game, followed by Lee's 5.7 clip.

Schuff also leads the team in steals, with 2.9 per game, while Harrell follows with 2.5 per outing. Harrell is also scoring well, with 17.3 points per game, while Lee averages 10, Ladner said.

Grady Thigpen, a senior with a good shooting touch, leads the free-throw category, hitting for a 72.7 percentage. J.T. Wood, a senior post-man whom Ladner considers his most-improved player, leads the team in field goal percentage, shooting the ball at 60.5 percent for the year.

Ladner commented, "Each player is contributing and that is giving us quality depth. Trent Terrell is playing well at off-guard and Evan Morris provides perimeter scoring, while Johnny Hamilton has provided a major spark coming off the bench.

"Jeff Bishop and Myron Labat are coming along nicely and we expect great things from both of them in the second half (of the season)."

Coach Jerry Spell's junior varsity squad sports a 1-4 record with much the same problem as the varsity team. The J.V. Rocks have led each game at halftime.

Ladner said Spell has done an excellent job of molding the group of 10th graders into a very competitive unit.

Spell said, "We will continue

Hawks win, Tigers lose in varsity basketball action

BY TRACI BONNEY

Hancock's hoopsters netted victories Tuesday night, while the Bay High Tigers and Tigerettes came home dejected.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

Hancock came out on top against St. Martin, while Bay St. Louis suffered a narrow loss to D'Iberville.

The Hawks edged St. Martin 65-60 in St. Martin, with Issac Thomas leading the scoring with 26 points. Tracy Lee chipped in 13 and Darrin Acker added 11. Thomas and Acker also netted a three-point goal each.

The Hancock boys stand at 6-1 while St. Martin stands at 2-6.

In the Bay High-D'Iberville game, the Warriors squeaked by the Tigers with a 70-66 victory in D'Iberville. Although Bay High outscored D'Iberville in the final three periods, it wasn't enough to overcome the first-period 23-9 Warrior lead.

Leading scorer for the Tigers was Trip Whavers with 24 points, followed by Travis Collins with 11. Whavers and Tristian Robertson contributed three-point goals.

The Bay High boys are 3-5 for the season, while the Warriors are 4-3.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The Hancock and Bay High girls' games followed the same pattern as the boys' matches: the Lady Hawks won 79-32, while the Tigerettes lost 56-19.

In Hancock hoop action, the Lady Hawks led 50-16 at half-time, and maintained that lead to win the game. Leah Smith and Stacy Ladner shared the top scorer spot with 13 each.

In the Bay High game, Tigerette L. Tullman led scoring with 12 points.

In junior varsity play, the Hawks again hit paydirt with a 59-48 win. Kelton Ladner led scoring with 13 and J. Jackson netted 10.

SSC Varsity takes Pearl River Central

The St. Stanislaus varsity basketball team claimed a win Tuesday night against Pearl River Central, 64-49.

Leading scorers for SSC were Ryan Harrell with 16 points; John Hamilton with 12 points; Trent Terrell with 11 points; and J.T. Wood with 10.

Mike Lee lead rebounds with 15, while Harrell contributed 14, Wood 10, and Hamilton nine. Steve Schuff had five assists and Terrell, four.

Harrell stole four times and Lee snatched three.

Coach Jay Ladner said, "I thought each player contributed. We still had too many turnovers, but give PRC credit for that. They played with a lot of intensity and forced us into bad decisions.

"It is a big win though, anytime you can beat a team coached by the legendary Roland Ladner."

SSC's varsity team stands

3-6 overall and 2-2 in district. The varsity plays D'Iberville in an Invitational Tournament next.

SSC jr. varsity defeats PRC

The St. Stanislaus' junior varsity team defeated Pearl River Central Tuesday, 49-35.

Leading scorers for the night were Jeff Bishop, scoring 18 points, and Lee Palmer with 17 points.

Palmer had 13 rebounds and hit seven for seven from the free throw line. Troy Schwant had nine rebounds, four assists and three steals.

Myron Labat showed much improvement in the point guard position and made four assists.

Coach Jay Ladner said, "Overall the team has shown great improvement since the first game.

"The players recognize that they have a lot of individual and team weaknesses to correct."

SSC's junior varsity stands 2-4 overall and 1-3 in district. They play their next game, 11:15 a.m. Friday at home against Vancleave.

Benefield to play in All-Star game

Five Pearl River Community College Wildcats will participate in the Mississippi Community and Junior College All-Star Classic Saturday at Northeast Mississippi Community College's Keenum Stadium in Booneville.

Each of the 14 schools that participate in football will be represented by at least three players with the exception of Northwest and Hinds which have accepted an invitation to play in a bowl game.

Itawamba Community College's Mike Eaton and his staff will coach the North team, while George Sekul and his staff from Mississippi Gulf Coast will coach the South team.

Kickoff for the 19th annual game is set for 1 p.m. The North won last year's contest 15-12 and holds a 9-7-1 edge in the series.

Pearl River players selected include defensive back Larry Whigham of Hattiesburg; linebacker Terry Moore of Lynn Haven, Fla.; linebacker Lateef Travis of Pensacola, Fla.; defensive end Sean Benefield of Hancock County; and tight end Wendell Magee of Hattiesburg.

The PRC Wildcats, under head coach Willie Coats, finished the season with a 6-4 overall ledger and 4-2 South Division mark.

Bay couple 'Remember Pearl Harbor'

By ELLIS CLEVAS

Pearl Harbor 47 years ago today, with all eyes on the Hawaiian Islands, the Japanese attacked the Hawaiian Islands on the morning of Dec. 7, 1941.

BOMB SHELTER AT WAIKIKI BEACH—Bill Sanders emerges from his backyard bomb shelter built by his landlord under orders from authorities in 1941 after the attack on Pearl Harbor. The Sanders lived in the rented house until January when she was sent home by the government.

only one block from Waikiki Beach when the Japanese attacked the Hawaiian Islands on the morning of Dec. 7, 1941.

Bill, an aviator mechanic, reported for duty on the night of Dec. 6 because his captain was to fly a patrol the next morning. The flight was scheduled for 0800 hours.

We had reveille at 0630 hours and had no idea of anything unusual going on. After reveille, I got the plane preflighted. It was a OS2U, a single engine seaplane. We were attached to a crane with the engines turning over. I climbed out of the cockpit to the outer deck of the Curtis to sign the yellow sheet when I heard an explosion on Ford Island," Bill Sanders recalled.

We were moored approximately 100 yards from the runway on Ford Island, when the loud speakers blared. All hands general quarters. I shut the engine off on the plane and went to my quarters station.

Which was on the hanger back. Sanders continued. I took a crew cut to return the plane to the hanger and machine gun fire from a Japanese plane destroyed the aircraft. He flew only 20 feet from us. The crane operator lifted the burning plane and dropped it overhead.

Sanders said. Betty Sanders, his wife, was dependent on him for her living and was away from home.

I just turned on the radio and heard the news. I was in the hanger when the plane was destroyed. I was asked to go to the hanger back.

The news of the attack on Pearl Harbor was broadcast to the public. The attack on Pearl Harbor was a surprise attack by the Japanese Navy on the United States Navy at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, on December 7, 1941.

covered with boats. I could see boats of all sizes and types from pleasure boats to fishing boats and military boats. I didn't know what or who they were.

The broadcast told us to stay indoors, and for all military personnel to report to duty immediately and that Pearl Harbor had been bombed.

Waikiki Beach was deserted. I returned home and talked to some of my neighbors, most of whose husbands were on duty. We were all concerned about what happened," Mrs. Sanders said.

Meanwhile, action in the harbor intensified furiously. After the plane, which was aflame, was dropped aboard I went to the boat back and manned the speaker phones from the bridge to gun mount number two which was a two-inch 38 mm dual purpose long rifle anti-aircraft and surface firing gun. Bill Sanders continued.

On the Curtis, Sanders said, "I shut the engine off on my plane and went to my general quarters station on the quarter deck. I then returned to put the seaplane back in the hanger. Machine gun fire from a Japanese plane destroyed my plane."

Sanders moved to the boat deck and manned the speaker phones from the bridge to gun mount number two.

"The gun crew succeeded in shooting down a Japanese bomber which crashed into the Curtis at mid-ship, causing fires and a lot of confusion."

About 30 minutes after the attack, a bomb struck the ship and the concussion knocked Sanders down.

Sanders received shrapnel in his left arm, face and both hands when the bomb hit the deck of the Curtis.

McKenna, who was apparently blown off the quarter deck of the Arizona, doesn't remember how he got in the water.

"I was picked up out of the water and taken to the Tennessee, a ship I just left three or four months before, which had taken minimal damage. They herded us into Sick Bay and I

McKenna, a native of Toledo, Ohio, served 22 years in the Navy. Sanders, a native of Greenwood, Miss., was raised in Denver, Colorado, had a career of 29½ years of Naval Aviation service.

On his return to California after the attack, McKenna was assigned to the Naval Station in Alameda, Calif., as an armed guard.

In May, 1942, McKenna was a victim of torpedoes from a submarine in the Gulf of Mexico, offshore from Houma, La.

McKenna was a member of a armed guard crew on the Merchant Ship McMahan, a tanker on its way to pick up a load of fuel at Bay Town, Texas.

"McKenna said, 'After the empty tanker was struck by the torpedoes, the submarine surfaced as we were going down. The captain ordered us to abandon ship, and the submarine continued on its way.'

Later the sailors and seamen were plucked from the Gulf of Mexico waters by a U.S. Coast Guard crew.

From the Alameda Naval Station, McKenna took gun crews out on the merchant ships until December, 1944, where he then spent the rest of the time as Master of Arms at Alameda until his retirement in November.

1946. McKenna and Sanders emphasized, "People don't really know what happened at Pearl Harbor unless they were there, and we still wonder why it took so long for us to get the information that we were being attacked." McKenna and Sanders recalled how a new radar station had been placed on the island only two months before the attack. Two soldiers were trying it out and reported to their commanding officer about the approaching planes. He just disregarded them as being Navy PBYS playing around, and this was about one hour before the attack. McKenna was with them

Betty and Bill Sanders

"The gun crew succeeded in shooting down a Japanese bomber which crashed into the Curtis at mid-ship causing large fires and adding to the confusion. On its crash course, the bomber passed only five feet over my head striking the ship about 25 feet from my position.

"We continued firing at the planes and some tried to put out the fires. About 30 minutes after the attack, a bomb from a high flight over us struck the ship. The concussion knocked me down. The contact point was only 15 feet from me but thank goodness it was one deck below.

"When the bomb hit the Curtis I received shrapnel in my left arm, face and both hands. I immediately placed a fire fighting party and we succeeded in controlling the fires.

"At this point, time seemed the major enemy of the attack was over. We weren't receiving attacks from planes.

"A U.S. Destroyer passed along side us and dropped some depth charges. In a few minutes, a two man Jap sub came to the surface and it was immediately blown to bits by the destroyer's guns.

"I received emergency medical aid and we were all placed on complete alert. During the battle we were only about one and a half times from the Arizona, Nevada, West Virginia, Tennessee and California. (U.S. Navy battleships).

"The old Utah, a decommissioned battleship, was anchored only 100 feet from us. It had been used for machine gun fire practice and was destroyed by the Japanese. All of the natives were instructed to build bomb shelters in their yards which she did.

"At Waikiki Beach, Betty said everyone had to have blackouts as they were afraid the Japanese would attack again, the American government sent all dependents home.

"I was given the job of escort duty because of wounds. I drove the different commanding officers from one ship to another. My injuries kept me from flying immediately, but if I had not been wounded it would not have made any difference because all of our planes were destroyed.

"The landing strip on Ford Island was lined up with trucks across the runway because the Americans didn't want the Japanese to land on the strip.

"The first American planes to come in from the Enterprise were fired upon by our own guns. Some were destroyed. Pilots were killed by our own gun fire. We were lucky that the Enterprise and Hornet were at sea on maneuvers when the attack came.

"Mrs. Sanders also remembered there was an article in the newspapers stating there was going to be some practice shooting by the big guns at Fort Shafter the day before the attack. She said they would run these notices so everyone could put loose items on shelves in safe places.

"Betty was really worried about Bill and he about her. It wasn't until Tuesday that Bill was able to get home and tell her everything was O.K.

"Bill was also able to get messages to other dependents about their spouses, the ones he knew were alive.

"Bill was able to visit Betty only for a few hours at a time. He as well as all other military personnel were all on duty 24 hours a day.

"Bill said his being a chauffeur helped him get a little time to visit home.

"The house the Sanders rented only the month before cost them $90 per month, and they still have the first receipt. The lady who owned the house had a garage converted into living quarters for herself. All of the natives were instructed to build bomb shelters in their yards which she did.

"At Waikiki Beach, Betty said everyone had to have blackouts as they were afraid the Japanese would attack again, the American government sent all dependents home.

"Betty said she stayed as long as she could and tried to dodge the authorities, not leaving until Bill's commanding officer ordered him to get her off the islands. She

"Back on the mainland, Betty's father received a telegram addressed to her stating that her husband was wounded in action. She said her father thought their home was hit. The telegram was dated December 11, 1941.

"Betty's father was a Bureau of Narcotics supervisor in San Francisco and he called an agent in Honolulu to see how Betty and Bill were. The agent called Betty's father back to say they both were alright.

"After the attack the first word Betty received about the U.S. Curtis was that the ship had been hit. Civilian friends who worked for the military brought her the news, but they didn't know what Bill's condition was, whether he was alive or dead.

"Bill says he witnessed many Americans being burned alive in the Harbor, because the water was covered with fuel oil and it wall all aflame.

"The fuel oil burned day and night around Ford Island, and he saw many a man jump into the burning oil.

"Bill said he watched many a sailor being rescued from overturned boats which were bottomed up. Rescue workers would use hammers to tap on the hulls to find survivors away.

JAPANESE SHIP GROUNDED ON GUADALCANAL—This Japanese attack ship was one of the many which were beached by the Japs during the Pacific Theatre. Chief Sanders said after they received too much fire power from the Americans and were about to sink, they would run up on the islands like this one did at Guadalcanal.

trapped in the woods. Then they would go out and pull them out. At times, they would be a couple of people out of one hole. That type of rescue was a few days at a time.

"I saw them carrying the dead bodies out of the Arizona and the other ships sank. There were dead Americans all around the islands. The Japanese had been walked all over us if they would have launched an invasion after Pearl Harbor, Sanders commented.

"Bill was on the staff of a group of coast guard in the flight school at Pensacola, Fla. in 1929. He stayed in the Navy until 1933 and was discharged. He and Betty were married in 1936.

"In 1940, he went back to the Navy because he thought it was the best thing to do.

"Bill said, 'I would do the same thing all over if I had to face the same situation.'

"He remained on the U.S. Curtis for five months. He went to Guadalcanal in the 24's as a new chief on bombing and observation flights.

"I flew over the Japanese ships at night. I counted them. He said, 'After Guadalcanal, Bill saw action at Munda, the Freesia Island group to the Admiralty Islands and was there until Leyte in the Philippines just prior to returning States after three years in the South Pacific.'

"When the war was over, Bill was at Corpus Christi, Texas training flight crews.

"During the Korean War, Chief Sanders was out of Okinawa to Korea on bombing runs.

"In 1957, Sanders retired with 28 1/2 years of service as an aviation machinist mate permanent appointment. He logged a total of 10,000 hours of flying time during his military career.

Japanese fleet. The reason so many of the American ships were sunk by the Japanese attack was because there was an additional inspection of all ships in port on Saturday, Dec. 6.

All hatches were open so the ships were not water tight as they normally are during an attack. The Japanese gave us a beating at Pearl Harbor, but we returned the favor to them.

"The Americans dropped two atomic bombs on Japan and I still agree with the decision of President Harry Truman to drop the bombs. Many more Americans would have lost their lives if we would have had to invade Japan," Sanders commented.

"Sanders has an assortment of mementos. Many more he said he gave away. He has a Short Shorter Bill (it contains currency bills from many countries) which has been signed by such people as Frank Sinatra, Bob Hope, H. L. Hunt, dean of reporters, Pete Stackpole, Life magazines; Buster Crabbe, Pat O'Brien, Admiral Halsey, Francis Langford, Lyle Culina, Robert Montgomery, Skinny Ennis among others. One Japanese yen has the notation that it was taken from the body of a Jap captured on Guadalcanal.

"Bill brought an ash tray home made from the skull of a Japanese, but Betty, after while threw it out. Swords, flags, photos are among the memorabilia he still has.

"Bill arrived in Hawaii in May, 1941 on the U.S.S. Curtis. The seaplane tender which carried four seaplanes and was capable of tending 14 planes in the 10,000-ton class. They were doing routine operations out of Pearl Harbor to Wake, Midway, and Johnston to Bill.

Bill was born in Greenwood, Colorado. His parents were informed about his well being by Betty's father when he found out they were alright via telephone through Honolulu.

"Betty returned to the U.S. on the sister ship of the U.S.S. Monterey, S.S. Lurline and it was no longer a cruise ship. Bill said the Lurline returned to the states at 33 knots without escorts, they weren't necessary as the Japanese subs couldn't go that fast at that time.

"Bill has a leaflet which was like the ones dropped over Munda in the Solomon Islands. It originated on Guadalcanal and is in Japanese on an 8.5 by 11 inch sheet. The notation on the back reads:

"A translation of the leaflet dropped on Munda by the Black Cat Squadron on the night of August 31, 1942 follows:

"Today the heavy artillery of the Americans began the shelling of Kolombangara Island; however, this is only the beginning.

"You will not be able to stay outside of your dugouts and as a result you will suffer from many cases of malaria and dysentery.

"While you are engaged in a painful struggle, the Japanese Navy, which is living in the comfort of plenty outside of the battle zone, is absolutely helpless to aid you. By our unceasing attack on your food and shelter, even your holes will be destroyed.

"And some of you will be buried alive. Ask the survivors of the 299th Regiment about their experiences at Villa LaVella Island.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1991-1B

Local arts association and young performers invite all:

'O Come and Celebrate'

BY JANET MCQUEEN

The artistic talents of local youths will be showcased Saturday night in "Traditions of Christmas," a holiday presentation of music, drama and dance.

The concert, which begins at 7, is sponsored by the Bay High Fine Arts Association.

Sounds of the yuletide season will fill the Bay High auditorium with a Christmas carol medley by the "All-Bay Area" high school chorus. Joining in harmony will be chorus members from Bay High School, Our Lady Academy, St. Stanislaus and Hancock High School, under the direction of BHS chorus director Katrina Pachel.

"The association hopes to make this special coming-together of our area's young singers an annual tradition," said production director Sharon Loiacano.

Charles Dickens' Scrooge will come alive from the pages of A Christmas Carol in a performance by "United Footprints," Bay High's improvisational theatre troupe. Members of the school's Drama I class will be directed by Renee Hamm.

The young thespians will also gain experience as backstage assistants in the production.

The Gulf Coast Youth Orchestra will offer its rendition of classical Christmas favorites, including O Holy Night and Ave Maria.

A highlight of the evening will be excerpts from The Nutcracker and A Little Match Girl performed by Bay St. Louis' own Coast Youth Ballet Ensemble.

The ballet troupe, under the direction of Loiacano, combines the talent of advanced, classical dancers from Waveland to Ocean Springs.

"Several numbers combine all the talented groups as they show what a beautiful tradition the arts have in the holiday season," said Loiacano.

A special display in the auditorium lobby will feature winning entries in the Bay High Fine Arts Association's first Christmas card and ornament design contest. Competition was open to students in grades K-12 in Bay-

Waveland Public Schools. The grand prize winner will be introduced during the program, and the winning art will be on display at Jeanne Anne's Hallmark in Bay St. Louis for the remainder of the holiday season.

Advance tickets ($4 adults, $2 children and senior citizens) are available at Anthony's Men's Wear, The Ballet Place, Ellen Kane Gifts and Jeanne Anne's Hallmark. Ticket prices at the door will be $5 and $3, respectively.

BHFAA is a non-profit booster organization for the arts in Bay St. Louis and Waveland schools and in the community. Proceeds from the concert will help to purchase a piano for the new Bay High auditorium and assist in promotion of the arts through programs for youth.

Voices in harmony

"Christmas in the Pass VII" set for Friday

BY TRACI BONNEY

Trim up the pear trees and set the partridges to roost. The Christmas season has started on the Coast.

Historic Pass Christian will provide the setting for the annual Christmas in the Pass holiday celebration Friday, Dec. 6, from 4 to 8 p.m.

The schedule of activities for the event includes:

5-9 p.m. — Music by strolling carollers and bands performing in the downtown area, including the Keesler Chorale, Pass Christian Middle School and Slidell Cloggers;

5:30 p.m. — Santa arrives by sleigh for the lighting of the Christmas tree in War Memorial Park;

4-9 p.m. — Downtown merchants hosting open houses with prize drawings and refreshments;

9 p.m. — Grand prize drawing of a gas grill; 4-6 p.m. — "Santa's Secret Shop": Children's shopping for mom, dad and family in the Colonade Building;

4-9 p.m. — Art display by Pass Christian High School in the Hancock Bank Annex;

5-9 p.m. — Local arts and crafts on display at St. Paul Catholic School;

5 p.m. til — Local restaurants, Pass Christian Yacht Club and St. Paul Catholic School serving special menus;

7 p.m. — Fireworks and a community sing with the 15 carolling groups on Scenic at St. Paul Street.

Other highlights of the event include two Holly Trolleys and the traditional gumbo cookout. (It's rumored that a certain local celebrity chef may be one of the judges.)

Baxter Jones with the Pass Christian Area Chamber of Commerce said, "Our theme this year is Home For Christmas, in honor of those who couldn't be home last Christmas. As you know, a lot of them had to spend time out in the desert 'sunbathing.' So our theme is for them and for those who can't be home this year.

"We try to keep the celebration old-time. There isn't a carnival atmosphere."

He added that parking for the handicapped will be designated in the St. Paul Catholic Church parking lot.

For more information, call the Pass Christian Area Chamber of Commerce, 452-2252 or Lynn Doussan at 452-9930.

Classroom blessing

Brother Ray Hebert (right), an ordained brother of the Sacred Heart, blessed the seven classrooms, computer labs and guidance area of the new addition at St. Stanislaus High School November 3 in a dedication ceremony attended by alumni, friends, parents and students. Assisting Hebert was St. Stanislaus Student Council president Adam Breerwood. (SSC photo)

The Shell Oil Company Foundation and the National Association Secondary School Principals offer the Shell Century III Leaders program for outstanding high school seniors. The program provides young leaders with an opportunity to compete for scholarships and to attend a national conference in Williamsburg, Va.

A total of $259,100 in scholarships will be awarded this year. State alternates and state finalists will be chosen in the spring.

Brunner was an alpha honor roll student as a sophomore and has been on the president's honor roll (all A's) the last two years. He is also a member of the National Honor Society, Mu Alpha Theta, the Key Club, and is vice-president of the Spanish Honor Society.

Additionally, he is on the newspaper and yearbook staffs. As a junior he was a Pepsi Student of the Month.

As a service to St. Stanislaus Brunner programs the electric bulletin board. He is also a member of the Search Retreat Team which hosts three peer-guided retreats throughout the year.

Ladner, Hall, Hoffer, Fields honored at Pass High School

Chris Ladner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald J. Ladner of Pass Christian, was recently selected as Pass Christian High School's nominee for the Japan-U.S. Senate Scholarship Program competition.

As a nominee, Ladner will compete with high school juniors statewide for two state scholarships to Japan this summer.

The scholarship program has been funded by the Japanese government since 1981. It provides full scholarships to send 100 American exchange students to Japan for a summer.

At PCHS, Ladner's activities include Beta Club, Mu Alpha Theta, Student Council, Science Club, the band and junior representative to the Band Council. He is an honor roll student and has won several academic awards.

Tiffany Hall, daughter of Patricia and Louis Hall, has been selected as the PCHS 1992 Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation candidate. She will attend the Mississippi Youth Leadership Seminar in the spring of 1992 in Jackson.

Hall, a sophomore, is a Pass High superintendent honor roll student. Her extracurricular activities include Science Club, French Club, Student Council, SADD and track team. Selected homecoming maid in ninth and tenth grades, she has received several academic awards.

Cindy Hoffer has been selected PCHS Century III Leaders winner and is now eligible to compete in the state competition. She is the daughter of Barbara and Steve Fleming of Pass Christian.

She has been a superintendent's honor roll student for the past three years. Her extracurricular activities include Student Council, Beta Club, Mu Alpha Theta, Quiz Bowl, French Club, Science Club, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Yearbook staff, newspaper staff, cheerleading squad and track.

Michelle Fields, daughter of Mrs. Ethel Fields, has been selected as the DAR Good Citizen from PCHS.

Fields is consistently on the superintendent's honor roll and participated in the Voice of Democracy Contest. Her other extracurricular activities include Student Council, Mu Alpha Theta, Beta Club, French Club and SADD.

800 Club winner

CEHS names Pepsi Students

Ashley Taylor

Michelle Morse

Coast Episcopal High School recently announced the selection of Pepsi Students of the Month for September and October. Chosen for September were Michelle Morse and Marty VanderNoot, and for October were Ashley Taylor and Rebecca "Becca" Emerson.

Morse is a senior and the daughter of George Morse of Gulfport and Betty Morse of Brandon. She is president of the National Honor Society and a member of Quill and Scroll and SADD.

VanderNoot is a freshman and the son of Cmdr. and Mrs. Craig VanderNoot of Gulfport. He is class president and a member of the German Club. He plays on the junior varsity basketball team.

Taylor is a senior and the daughter of Ann Taylor of Pass Christian and Joseph Taylor of Delcambe, La. She is secretary of the CEHS student council and vice-president of the French Club. She is also business manager of the annual staff. Emerson is a freshman and the daughter of Steve and Susan Dockens of Gulfport. She is a Raider cheerleader and a member of SADD and the German Club.

Each month the faculty selects one student from the junior high and one from the senior high schools for the honor of Pepsi Student of the Month. Criteria for this honor include performance, effort, sportsmanship, cooperation, self-control and initiative.

Green nominated for METV Honor Roll

BY TRACI BONNEY
St. Clare School's Darlene Green recently made Mississippi ETV's Honor Roll.

Green, a social studies and English teacher at the school, was recognized on the air, along with other Mississippians who have made outstanding contributions to education in the state, during American Education Week (November 17-23).

In soliciting the nominations, Mississippi ETV asked educators around the state to nominate "teachers, administrators, schools, parents or community groups, and others in our state who have made significant contributions to education this year." More than 75 nominations were received for the honor.

St. Clare principal Sister Jane Birrcher said Green was nominated "because of her outstanding efforts to teach her students what it means to be a true American."

"For over 20 years Darlene has consistently encouraged and motivated her students through her social studies and English classes. She is the ETV representative for St. Clare, and constantly researches areas of interest so that educational films and studies are available for all the teachers."

"She promotes exciting projects — for example, on the Bill of Rights — and current patriotic activities such as essays, dramatizations and the like. Each day the student views the current news and this is carried on into the classroom. With the use of the ETV channels and opportunities, global views are covered."

Darlene Green

Librarians attend workshop

Attending a "Hurray for Books" workshop on Nov. 12 at the Doubletree Hotel in New Orleans, La. were Ada Demlow, head librarian of the d'Iberville Library; Sheree Salzburger, children's director for the Biloxi libraries and Sally James, children's librarian at the Pass Christian Library.

The eight-hour course was presented by the internationally recognized instructor on children's books and programming, Dr. Caroline Feller Bauer.

St. Stanislaus selects Scafide HOBY nominee

Dr. Michael Ryan, principal of St. Stanislaus, announced Drew Scafide as the 1991-92 Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation nominee for which all 10th graders were eligible.

The HOBY Foundation motivates, trains and develops future leaders, preparing them for positions in their schools and helping them to expand the talents that will serve themselves and the larger society in the future. HOBY seminars bring together high school sophomores and a group of men and women who have distinguished themselves in business, education, government, the sciences, the arts and the professions. Scafide's selection was based on incentive and demonstrated leadership ability.

Scafide is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Scafide of Bay St. Louis. He is a member of the St. Stanislaus Cross Country Team which recently placed first in Mississippi.

He is ranked fifth in the state for this year. As a member of the track team Scafide received All-State and All-District recognition last year as a runner in the 800-meter event placing second in District, fourth in South State, and sixth in State.

He is also a member of the St. Stanislaus soccer team and the Bay Express Select soccer team.

Scafide is a member of Mu Alpha Theta, the math honor club, and has been an honor roll student each quarter since he entered St. Stanislaus as a seventh grader.

Drew Scafide

GED classes offered at HHS

Hancock High School is offering a special GED program for students who wish to brush up on skills preparatory to a college degree. Each student can find his weaknesses and strengths by taking a trail GED test and study those subjects he feels he needs with the help of a planned individual curriculum.

Students, who were unable to attend higher high school classes, can study such with a Mississippi certified teacher. They can then take the GED test and have the equivalent of a high school diploma.

Classes are held at Hancock High School on Monday and Tuesday from 9 a.m.-noon with Mrs. Lois Abrams teaching in Conference Room B of the Administration Building.

Night classes are on Monday and Wednesday, 6-9 p.m. with Mrs. Ferguson and Mr. Rolison teaching in the Junior High Building.

Students may register at any class meeting, then study toward their own goals. Call Mrs. White at 467-2251 for more information.

Typing demo

Mrs. Tula Carver, business education teacher at Our Lady Academy, demonstrates typing procedures on the new computers to some of her typing and keyboarding students. They are (from left) Bridgetts Dugas, senior; Vickie McDonald, 7th grade; and Debbie Benigno, 8th grade. OLA raised more than $20,000 with a matching grant from the Sisters of Mercy to install a computer lab last summer. (OLA photo)
